

Zhe ZHANG has worked as General Secretary, Executive Director, Professional Judge and other important positions in various competitions, such as Arthur Rubinstein International Youth Piano Competition, Germany Steinberg Lieutenant Schumann International Youth Piano Competition, American Music Open Tournament, Brahms International Piano Competition, USA Southern California International Music Festival and other international music festival.

Bachelor of Music from Manhattan Conservatory of America, Master of Music from Royal North Conservatory of Music of the UK

In 2005, Zhe was the winner of the National Schumann Contest

In 2006, Zhe won the second place in the national exams admitted to the Middle School of the Central Conservatory of Music. Zhe's musical teachers include: Associate Professor Shigu Zhang from the Central Conservatory of Music, Professor Zhiwei Zhang from the Central Conservatory of Music, Ms Xinning Zhang from the Department of Piano of the Central Conservatory of Music Middle School and Professor Qifang Li from the Central Conservatory of Music

In 2007 and 2008, Zhe was invited to perform at Cassamalgoire Festival in Italy and attend international master classes. Zhe was invited to record Zen, a Chinese work commissioned by UN commissioned composer Lee Hak-chan, that was broadcast on French radio.

In 2012, 2013 and 2014, Zhe Held solo recitals in New York for three consecutive years. The duet "Paradise" for cello and piano, "Lullaby" for soprano and premiere of the song "Pigeon" that have been performed by Zhe in New York. Zhe has also been invited to Harvard Club for the New York Police Association donation dinner. Zhe has been invited as a guest pianist at the MSM in Mountain International Music Festival in the United

In 2015, Zhe has received interview with New York Radio twice.

In April 2016, during an interview with the Central Conservatory's "Square Table Conference", He studied with American pianist Sedmara Rustein; former piano department director, piano educator and pianist Jerome Lowenthal at the Jule Conservatory of Music; and pianist Yin Chengzong.

Now, Zhe follows Professor Murray McLachlan to continue his music study.

Since July 2015, he has been invited to hold piano open lessons, lectures, teacher training and solo concerts all over the country.